Thank you for choosing us as your Personal Stylist for your upcoming journey. We're here to insure you the best style service in Atlanta and look forward to building an awesome relationship. But first let's talk about a few things....

Individuals who want to change their perspective about how to dress and carry themselves with dignity in and around the environment are in luck! They will benefit from the services offered by Epic Image Consulting, a premier level Image and Style consulting firm that provides services for everyone men, women and child alike.

Lorigan Respres, the owner of Epic Image Consulting has several years' professional experience working in the fashion/image consulting industry. As a certified member of the Association of Image Consultants International, he does important and effective work on a daily basis to impact the world around him.

My main priority is to give my clients confidence and awareness about how and why a well-put together persona is so important in today's world. My packages are designed for the client who wishes to establish a level of personal branding. Valued clients have many options for making over their lives; it's my personal "mantra" to guarantee Epic Image and Style.
